Thanks for your first draft! Here is my review.

- 1) The text in each of the main sections extends far out of the transparent containers. I think this must be a glitch of some sort. (Example screenshots below)

- 2) I would like to see all of the texts between sections at a consistent font size. Right now some of the sections are larger font sizes than others.
- 3) Please pin the nav bar to the top instead of having a new nav bar at every section.
- 4) In the final section, it cuts off and there is a large white block at the bottom. The rest of the text is not visible.
- 5) I think the main text at the top: “Human Genome Project” should not have the shadow behind it.
- 6) Let’s try Poppins for the headers (nav bar, main HGP text on top, section titles) and Roboto for the body text.
- 7) I was hoping the site might be at least somewhat responsive, however when changing the browser size, the problems with text overlapping and crowding gets only worse.
- 8) On the impact page, the background image conflicts with the word “Impact”
- 9) I would like all of the years on the left and all of the events on the right in two separate columns, rather than the way it currently is with several blocks of text. We discussed a vertical timeline that would look as such:

1998 aosdjfj
1999 a;dsjfa

Etc.
